PRACTICE AT HOME

HELLO!

Today in school your child learned about how to be a safe pedestrian.

We encourage every parent to ensure their child is ready to walk safely on their own by practicing these skills at home. Next time you're out walking in your neighborhood you can ask your child to:

- Point out safe places to walk and cross the street.
- Show you the five steps to crossing the street.
- Show you an example of a visual barrier (anything blocking a clean line of sight, like a shrub or parked car).
- Identify different traffic and pedestrian lights.

Practice will make these important skills second nature!

Avoid the visual barriers to help Henry and Hannah get to school!
